Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I think that the current Microsoft Settlement is fair and appropriate. I think that it would be a HUGE mistake to punish further this company.

As someone who travels a great deal, I find it tremendously helpful to sit down at a computer in whatever country I'm in and find a Windows environment with which I am comfortable and which I can immediately use. Any settlement that reduces Microsoft's influence in maintaining consistency in worldwide computer operating systems would be a serious blow to international business and education.
